State Patrol Employees of the Year Honored

A large crowd gathered in the State Capitol rotunda in early November, as state employees and supervisor/managers of the year were recognized for their efforts over the past year. Four employees of the Nebraska State Patrol were among those honored by Lt. Gov. Mike Foley.

Trooper Kent Kavan #341, was named sworn employee of the year. Kavan, a 29-year veteran of the agency, assigned to Headquarters Troop-Lincoln, was selected for his work ethic and strong commitment to traffic safety. Kent is a well-known and respected member of the communities in which he serves, and promotes the role seatbelts play in saving lives, through high enforcement activities.

Troop A-Omaha, Staff Assistant Samantha Myers received recognition as the civilian employee of the year. During a four-month period, Myers processed nearly 6,000 fingerprint applications, while also training two other staff assistants. Her performance reflects her professionalism and dedication to the citizens and the agency.

Lieutenant Jeff Roby #224, a 20-year NSP veteran, was honored as the sworn supervisor/manager of the year. After being promoted and assigned to the Training Academy, he thoroughly reviewed the training schedule for Class 57. Schedule changes as a result of his efforts resulted in a savings in overtime and meal expenses, without sacrificing the integrity of the training process.

The civilian supervisor/manager of the year honor went to Accounting and Finance Controller, Carol Aversman. Her clear and timely direction to her staff, has resulted in improved operations and sound management practices in the Accounting Division. A tireless professional who understands every facet of the administrative process in state government, Carol is a true asset to the agency.

Congratulations to these four employees on their exemplary service to the agency and the citizens of Nebraska!

Colonel's Corner

As our Agency moves into 2017, the expectations are great and the challenges ahead are many. Perhaps our greatest challenge will be the budget. Lagging state revenues have presented challenges that require every state agency to look closely at its operations for efficiencies. State Headquarters' priority is to ensure the public is provided the best possible law enforcement with the personnel and funds available. This is accomplished by ensuring every member of the State Patrol has the necessary training and equipment to perform his/her assignment in the most efficient manner possible. State Headquarters can only accomplish this mission with the help and input of every member of our Agency.

Colonel Brad Rice #554

The Agency is busy with Camp #58 , with 22 recruits beginning their training February 27.

As we continue through winter, I want to remind all of you, please be careful when winter driving conditions exist. Make sure you make it home safe to your loved ones. Keep focused and safe while on the job. What's Important Now (WIN) is just one part of our Below 100 Initiative. It's a simple question that can elicit profound results. Keeping this in mind will lead to deliberate action, not reaction. If you are constantly prioritizing what's most important, you won't have time for the distractions that can get you in trouble, hurt, or killed.

Thanks to each of you for your professionalism and dedication and please pass along my thanks to your families. Have a safe and happy 2017.

Troop D Commander Captain Lynn Williams Retires

Lynn Williams and wife, Susan, at his retirement celebration.

Fall 2016 was a season of change for Troop D - North Platte. Troop Commander Captain Lynn Williams #183 retired at the end of September, after more than 33 years of service to the agency and the citizens of Nebraska.

"Lynn personifies what it means to be a true public servant," said Colonel Brad Rice, Superintendent of the Nebraska State Patrol. "Throughout his career he gave selflessly of his time for the betterment of his Troop Area and the communities which he has served.

Captain Williams, who began his career in 1983, was honored at a retirement celebration in October.

Patrol Earns Reaccreditation

The Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA) once again awarded the Nebraska State Patrol the Gold Standard Accreditation "With Excellence Award."

The Nebraska State Patrol received its reaccreditation during the CALEA Fall Conference in North Charleston, South Carolina, in November.

"Maintaining the Gold Standard Accreditation is a testament to the dedication and professionalism of all our employees," said Colonel Brad Rice.

The State Patrol first received the Gold Standard Accreditation "With Excellence Award", during the 2013 CALEA accreditation process. The agency was first accredited in 1989.

NSP Foundation News

The Nebraska State Patrol Foundation Board continues to explore methods of obtaining funding for Foundation programs and services by contacting businesses in our communities. These funds are used to purchase items that are not provided for in the state budget, including specialty equipment and related training, program resources, police service dogs, and Motorist Assist Program support.

In a time when law enforcement across the nation has become a target for the criminal world, the Foundation is cognizant and concerned about the safety of the men and women who don the Nebraska State Patrol uniform that four members on the board were proud to wear for many years. We appreciate the dedication and professionalism you demonstrate each day in your role as State Troopers.

If there is anyone in your troop area interested in donating to the Foundation, feel free to contact any of the Foundation board members: Judy (Bailey) Janssen, President, jajanssen167@hotmail.com ; Jim Pearson, Vice President, jpearson@neb.rr.com ; Steve Shaw, Secretary/Treasurer, steveshaw@windstream.net ; Andy Anderson, aanderson34@neb.rr.com ; Cliff Karthaus, karthaus.cliff@principal.com ; Jane Tooley, deputytooley@hotmail.com ; Kim Wolfe, pcac@megavision.com ; or Doug Wyatt, dwyatt@ortholinc.com . The Nebraska State Patrol Foundation is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization.

Foundation Purchases Driving Simulator

A generous donation from State Farm Insurance is helping the Nebraska State Patrol promote teen driver safety as it works to reduce the number of young drivers involved in serious injury and fatality crashes.

In October, representatives from the Nebraska State Patrol, State Farm Insurance, Northeast Community College, and the Nebraska State Patrol Foundation unveiled a new driving simulator and transportation trailer. State Farm contributed $26,000 for the purchase.

“Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for Nebraska teens,” said Field Services Major Mike Gaudreault. “We want to thank State Farm Insurance for its generous donation. By working together, we are able to address an issue that affects us all.”

The simulator has three computer screens for wide angle viewing, and provides users with more than 200 scenarios and exercises that test their driving skills, and show the complex thought process required for safe driving.

Trooper Gena Jones #668 operates the newest driving simulator.

Sowers Club Gives to Foundation

The Sowers Club of Lincoln awarded $500 to the Nebraska State Patrol Foundation in support of the Patrol's public safety education presentations.

The club, which dates back to 1887, was formed as a men's social group representing Lincoln's business community. Today their goal is to maintain pride in Nebraska and promote this pride throughout the state, sowing goodwill through charity. Since 1989, they have donated over $3.5 million to more than 300 organizations throughout Nebraska.

HDQ Community Service Officer Trooper Charlie Cook #177 accepted the $500 award at a December ceremony in Lincoln.

Casting for Recovery

by Denise Rice

“ I am sorry to tell you.....you have invasive ductal carcinoma” are the words I heard on May 1, 2015. How could this be possible? My sister had fought this battle four years prior and I knew that a woman’s risk of breast cancer nearly doubles if she has a first-degree relative (mother, sister, daughter) who had been diagnosed. But the doctors had confirmed through genetic testing, there was no inherited link in our family. I was healthy, exercised, and watched my diet! There must be a mistake! Fourteen days later, my first chemotherapy treatment proved this was no mistake. I was not going to wake up from this nightmare for about 18 months.

In 2016, there were more than 2.8 million women with a history of breast cancer in the U.S. Approximately 1 in 8 U.S. women (12%) will develop invasive breast cancer in their lifetime. Except for skin cancer, breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer among American women. Men are not immune; their risk of breast cancer is 1 in 1,000. Countless support services are available throughout treatment and after, most of which I had never heard of.

While attending Expressions of Art & Hope, a cancer support event, I was made aware of Casting for Recovery (CfR). CfR was founded in 1996 in Vermont, by a breast cancer reconstructive surgeon and professional fly fisherman.

Denise Rice fly fishing for Rainbow Trout

The concept of CfR is unique. On a physical level, the gentle, rhythmic motion of fly casting is similar to exercises often prescribed after surgery or radiation to promote soft tissue stretching. On an emotional level, women are given the opportunity to experience a new activity in a safe environment with a supportive group of peers. Seventy percent of the women who attend CfR have never been to a support group before. The retreats provide resources to help address quality of life issues after a breast cancer diagnosis, and a new outlet – fly fishing – as a reprieve from the everyday stresses and challenges of their cancer.

Participants are selected by drawing 14 women from a large pool of applicants. I was selected as an alternate, and called just 3 days before the retreat began October 14, 2015. I quickly packed for the 2½ day all-expense paid mini-vacation at Prairie Club near Valentine, Nebraska. I had never fly fished, but received instruction in all aspects of the sport, including gear selection, outfitting, fly-tying, and casting. Generous donors provided all the gear. The weekend began with everyone being fitted with waders and boots and ended with a ½ day guided fishing experience in the Snake River.

It was a magical weekend, and an experience I would have never had without facing breast cancer. I caught and released five rainbow trout! More importantly I made many supportive friends and gained a new hobby. To date, CfR has conducted more than 550 retreats, throughout the nation, serving more than 7,500 women. In 2016, 45 retreats were held in 42 states, serving over 600 women. CfR relies on donations, grants, and more than 1,600 volunteer nationwide. Additional information can be found at <https://castingforrecovery.org/>

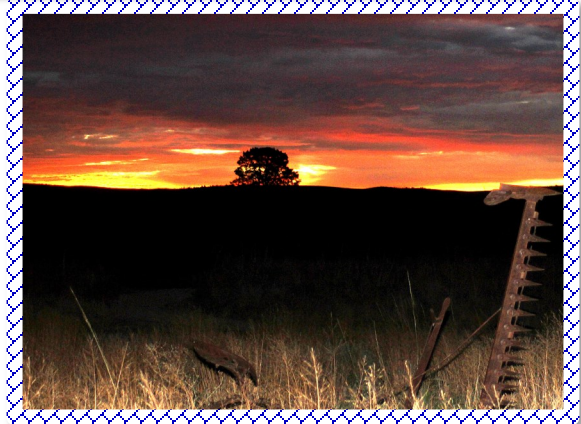

I want to say a special thank you to everyone for the support and understanding throughout my illness and healing. I am a survivor!

(Editors Note: Denise Rice started with the Patrol in July 2014 as a Records Supervisor in the CID division, and moved to the Grants Division as a Federal Aid Administrator II in May of 2015, shortly after her cancer diagnosis.)

A Time to Give Thanks

The end of another year provides us an opportunity for reflection. 2016 has proven to be challenging for law enforcement in many ways. We are all well aware of the atmosphere of mistrust, suspicion, disrespect, and even fear of law enforcement in parts of our country. We've seen the hate that has resulted in the shooting deaths of officers in Dallas, Kansas City, and Des Moines.

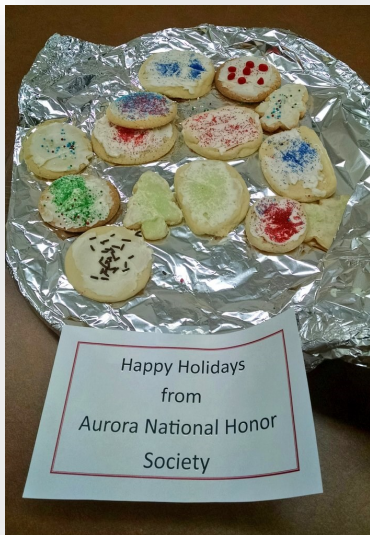

Colonel Brad Rice #554 presents a certificate of appreciation to Ben Allen and his wife, KQ, for their support of Law Enforcement.

While we're deeply saddened at these events, we in Nebraska are very blessed and thankful for the support law enforcement has from the public. That support has been shown from people like Ben Allen of Lincoln, who along with his wife, KQ, have spent their own money to print more than 17,000 "In Cops We Trust" stickers to distribute all across the state!

groups – from food, snacks, cards, and thank you posters dropped off at our offices across the state, to messages of thanks, support, and encouragement sent via email, social media, and our website. Here are a few examples:

"I'm very appreciative of the Nebraska State Patrol. My dad wasn't feeling well and pulled off the interstate. Trooper Amanda Hunt stopped and ended up driving him to a hospital where it was determined he had suffered a heart attack. If not for Amanda he likely would not be here anymore."

"I was on vacation last summer and was stopped by Trooper Warren Gibson. He was very polite and understanding of my situation and handled it wonderfully. I know in these times your work is not always appreciated as much as it should be, and I for one just want to say thank you!"

Treats for Troop C from Aurora

"Trooper Michael Grummert caught me speeding on the way to Nebraska city on Hwy 2. He was courteous and fair. God bless and keep up the good work. Also, apologies for the inconvenience!"

"You have a fine young trooper in Josh Emhovic, who went far above the call of duty when he assisted us on Interstate 80. In these horrible times where our faithful officers are putting their lives on the line, prayers are going up all over the world for their safety."

You may not always feel it, but you are appreciated by a vast majority of our citizens. Think about these things as you go to work each day and serve "Pro Bono Publico.....For The Good of the Public." We have a lot to be thankful for.

State Headquarters - Lincoln

Colonel Brad Rice speaks at DV/SA

The Criminal Identification Division was very active during the last few months of 2016! In September, CID's Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Program (DV/SA) teamed up with the Nebraska Coalition to End Sexual and Domestic Violence to host a 2-day conference on NO MORE Crimes of Power and Control. Held in Lincoln, the event drew more than 250 people. 15 presenters offered training relating to domestic violence, sexual violence, stalking, and human trafficking.

The CID Activities Committee came up with a creative way to honor those who have served in the Armed Forces. They encouraged staff to bring photos of loved ones who are veterans, and created a wall of honor in the office during the week of November 7. The Criminal Identification Division sincerely thanks all veterans for their service and sacrifice to our country.

Deb Collins receives the Distinguished Service Award from Colonel Brad Rice.

The staff at CID/NIAC/ISO gathered gifts for two families in need over the holiday season. The effort was organized by Lt. Jon Kraai #247, and Nina Anderson-Trumble, in conjunction with the Lincoln Child Advocacy Center. The generosity of the staff was overwhelming! Each family member received at least two items on their wish list. Thanks for helping to make a difference!
